

Dear writers,

you are interested in the Writing Café because you prefer to write in the presence of others, you want to share your writing goals with someone who can reflect with you on whether you have achieved them. You would like to talk with others during your breaks and not be by yourself. You want to be able to ask someone for feedback on text segments.

From now on, every Thursday is writing day. You can join a group at any starting time and get started. At designated times, a writing consultant will be present for questions and individual consultations.

The writing café will take place online in a gather. room and is accessible via a password stored in "resources". At the beginning you will be asked to create an avatar, enter your name and enable the mic and camera.

We recommend using the browser Google Chrome (please clear cache in advance) to be able to use all functions. Alternatively, Firefox works (please update in advance). The use of other browsers may lead to functional restrictions!